

Letters like x , y and z are commonly used as variables; these represent quantities that are unknown. Using algebra we can often find out what numbers these variables represent!