

Incorrect. Remember the difference between "identity" and "inverse." The Identity Property allows a term to maintain its same identity even after addition or multiplication, whereas an inverse yields 0 for addition and 1 for multiplication.