You added the absolute values of the two amounts and may have thought the sum was negative because the first addend was negative. Find the difference between the absolute values, $163.22 and $988.56, and give the sum the same sign as the number with the greater absolute value.