You multiplied the absolute values correctly, but a negative number times a positive number is negative. The correct answer is -3.6.