

Incorrect. When simplifying an expression containing absolute value, simplify the part of the expression inside the absolute value symbols first and remember that the absolute value of a negative number is positive.