You may have chosen this answer because the compound inequality has the word and, and you recognized this solution as an and statement. When you solve each inequality for f, be careful with the inequality signs, and check for an overlap between solutions.