

This point represents 3. First you need to find the correct value of x . Then you need to find where that number is plotted on the number line.