

You may have found the correct individual products, but then multiplied coefficients of like terms instead of adding them.