You correctly simplified the numerical factors, but not the variable factors. When you divide the variable factors, you need to subtract the exponents. If you get a negative exponent, rewrite that factor in the denominator with a positive exponent.