

Correct. You have isolated the variable by performing the required operations to both sides of the equation.