

The coefficient is the numerical factor of the term. The exponent is the power that the variable is raised to.