If you simplify this by subtracting x from both sides, you get $1 = 1$. Since this is true no matter what value x is, it means that every value of x is a solution. That is, the solution is all real numbers.