

You may have thought that the length plus the width was equal to the total perimeter. The perimeter is twice the width plus twice the length.