Incorrect. Divide both sides of each inequality by the coefficient of x in order to isolate the variable. If you divide by a negative number, be sure to change the direction of the inequality sign.