

The order of multiplication has been reversed. The commutative property has been applied here, not the distributive property. The form of the distributive property that can be used here is $a(b - c) = ab - ac$.