

You moved the decimal point six places to the right. Because the exponent is negative, you need to move the decimal point six places to the left.