Simplify each expression on the left side and match it to the exponent of the variable x in the simplified expression on the right side. For example, the first expression simplifies to $4x^6$, so it gets matched to 6, the exponent of x.