

You may have substituted and simplified the exponents correctly, but then made a mistake with your addition. Remember that when you add numbers with opposite signs, the sign of the answer is the sign of the addend with the greater absolute value.