

You combined the like terms, but you added the exponents as well as the coefficients. When you combine like terms you are really using the distributive property, and this does not change the exponents.