

It appears that you multiplied all of the exponents. To simplify $(z^6)^1$ you need to use the power rule. This tells you to multiply the exponents. Then to multiply by z^2 you would use the product rule, in which case the exponents get added. The correct answer is $-z^8$.