

After substituting the values for the variables, you may have added the factors instead of multiplying them. When evaluating a term such as  $2l$ , be sure to multiply the value of the variable by the coefficient.