

Correct. Move the decimal point to the right until you get a number between 1 and 10. For the given number, this would be 1.53. Since the decimal point was moved ten places to the right, you multiply the decimal by 10 raised to a negative power.  $0.00000000153 = 1.53 \times 10^{-10}$