This point represents the ordered pair $(-2, -3)$.

You moved in a negative direction (to the left and down), but the coordinates in the ordered pair are both positive. You should first move two units to the right along the x-axis and then three units up.