

Correct. Begin at the origin and move two units in a positive direction (right) along the x-axis. Then move two units down (in a negative direction). Plot the point there.