

This point represents the ordered pair $(-4, 1)$. You began at the origin and moved four units in the negative direction (left) along the x -axis, but then you moved one unit up (in the positive direction). You should have moved one unit down (in the negative direction).