

This point represents the ordered pair $(4, 1)$.

You moved in a positive direction (to the right and up), but the coordinates in the ordered pair are both negative. You should first move four units to the left along the x -axis and then one unit down.