

A plane travels an unknown number of miles from Europe to Alaska and back. It makes this round trip four times, travelling the exact same distance each time. It then travels 820 more miles. If the total distance the plane traveled was 7,000 miles, how many miles did the plane travel during each round trip?

Translate this into an equation, using  $x$  to represent the unknown number of miles the plane travels in one trip.