

The system is inconsistent because the two equations actually represent the same line.