

You have incorrectly graphed the two lines. They are not the same line. The first thing to note is the slopes of the two lines and what this means about their relationship. The second thing to note is their y -intercepts. This will help you graph them. The correct answer is: The equations are independent because the lines are parallel.