

Doing this will result in two equations with the term $35x$. This could be helpful, but because you really need to get opposite variable terms in the two equations, you will then have to multiply one equation by -1 . This will be a total of three multiplications performed. However, it is possible to produce opposite variable terms with just one multiplication.