

If you end up with $0 = 0$, then all the variables and constants have canceled each other out. This could only happen if the two equations were opposites. If you multiplied one of them by -1 , they would then be the same equation. Therefore they must have the same graph.