

This is a solution to the first equation, but not the second one, so it is not a solution of the system. If you substitute $7 + 3y$ for x in the second equation and then simplify, you will end up with the equation $0 = 2$. Since this is false, you cannot find numbers that make both equations true. The correct answer is that there is no solution.