

If you solve a system and end up with the equations $x = 0$ and $y = 2$, then the solution is $(0, 2)$. Here, if you substitute $7 + 3y$ for x in the second equation and then simplify, you will end up with the equation $0 = 2$. Since this is false, you cannot find numbers that make both equations true. The correct answer is that there is no solution.