

The graphs of these equations are the same line. That means that every point on the line is a solution to the system because it satisfies both equations. There are an infinite number of points, so there are an infinite number of solutions.