When isolating the variable, make sure that you do the same thing to both sides of the equation. For example, you can multiply both sides by r^2 and you can divide both sides by Gm.