

You may have simply swapped the variable M and the variable F when trying to solve for M . To isolate the variable, you need to perform operations on both sides. For example, you can multiply both sides by r^2 and you can divide both sides by Gm .