Incorrect. To eliminate z, add the first and second equations. Also add the first and third equations. Then add the two new equations and solve for y. Substitute this into one of the new equations and solve for x. Finally, substitute the values of x and y into one of the original equations and solve for z.