At some point when multiplying by -1, you made a mistake with signs and found $z = -5$ instead of $z = 5$. You used the incorrect value to find the values of x and y in the second and third equations. However, the values do not make the first equation true, so they are not a solution.