

Correct. The x -intercept of the line is the point \square on the line. If \square then \square so \square and therefore, \square so the x -intercept is \square