

You may have thought that, because you found  $0 = 7$  while eliminating variables, there are an infinite number of solutions. However, because this is a false statement, the correct answer is that there is no solution to this system.