When you eliminate variables in this system, you should find a false statement such as $0 = 4$. You may have thought that this indicates an infinite number of solutions. However, a false statement means that this system has no solution.