You may have subtracted the coefficients. To simplify rational expressions, factor the numerator and denominator instead. Separate the like factors from the others, and simplify fractions with equal numerators and denominators to 1.