

Correct. The number of toothpicks required to build this figure is 21, so in each row of the table the y value equals the number of toothpicks required to build Figure x .