

Correct. The product of the variables in this table is always 24. When the product of the variables is constant, this is an inverse variation.