

The value at point R is greater than the value at point Q.