

You probably found the area of the circle using 20 as the radius instead of 10. Find the approximate area of the circle with $r = 10$ and then subtract this from the area of the triangle.