The result has the correct sign, but you multiplied the fractions instead of performing division. To divide, you need to multiply the first fraction by the reciprocal of the second fraction.