

The side opposite an angle is the side that does not form part of the angle. The side adjacent to an angle is one of the two sides that form the angle. \overline{AC} is the hypotenuse and is not referred to as opposite or adjacent to an angle.