

When you eliminate variables in this system, you should find a false statement such as  $0 = -7$ . You may have thought that this indicates an infinite number of solutions. However, a false statement means that this system has no solution.