

You may have simply swapped the variable h and the variable V when trying to solve for h . To isolate the variable, you need to perform operations on both sides. For example, you can multiply both sides by 3 and you can divide both sides by πr^2 .